

Virginia's Horse Ride

One bright, sunny day a girl named Virginia wanted to take a ride on her horse Sir Virgil.

First, she put on her favorite shirt and the riding skirt that twirled when she moved.

Next, she got a water bottle just in case she got thirsty on the ride. At last, it was time to ride!

Virginia put her feet in the stirrups and gave Sir Virgil the signal to go. At first, the horse squirmed but he eventually did go. As he galloped, Sir Virgil's hooves hit the dirt hard and he moved swiftly. Virginia rode in a circle past the fir tree and up to a birch tree that had a bird's nest in it. Virginia smiled as she heard the baby birds in it chirp.

Finally, Virginia got back on Sir Virgil and rode home.
